County waste department partners with Master Gardeners to provide virtual Garden Talk on Saturday

Looking for a safe, socially-distanced way to learn how to cultivate water-efficient landscaping at home? On Saturday, Oct. 24, the Riverside County Department of Waste Resources will host a free virtual Garden Talk class that can be accessed on any computer, tablet, or smartphone.

In this virtual class, UCCE Master Gardeners will share their knowledge and dispense tips and tricks for creating drought-tolerant landscaping. Master Gardeners will detail everything from plant selection, soil composition and more – everything you need to know to create your own water-efficient outdoor space at home!

The free virtual Garden Talk begins at 10 a.m. and can be accessed via the sign-up link found at www.rcwaste.org/classes. Water-wise gardening not only saves money, but conserves valuable resources as well.

The presentation is part of the UC Cooperative Extension Master Gardener Program. The Riverside County Department of Waste Resources provides this free class to reduce waste and help preserve valuable space in county landfills, and to decrease the amount of chemical waste residents bring to the Household Hazardous Waste collection program for processing and disposal.
